

New Collaborative Law Division

A new division specialising in Collaborative Law, the latest non-confrontational approach to divorce and separation, has been launched by Stanley Tee as an addition to its highly successful family law practice.

The confidential and consultative nature of Collaborative Law will appeal especially to professional people who value their privacy, and couples who want to limit the emotional damage their children may suffer from a bitterly fought divorce battle.