

STANLEY TEE GROW BUSINESS WITH NEW CAMBRIDGE MERGER

Entrepreneurial law firm Stanley Tee LLP, whose past initiatives have transformed it from a local solicitors into a major regionally based practice, have pushed back the boundaries still further following a merger with Lorimer, Longhurst & Lees, a well established Cambridge law firm with a broadly based commercial and private practice.

“The move will consolidate our commercial presence in the M11 Corridor” says Stanley Tee’s Senior Partner Richard Tee, “expand our geographical coverage, and add new specialist services, like Clinical Negligence law, to our repertoire.

“We have always been keen to explore any avenue that enables us to improve the range and quality of the professional services we can offer our clients, and we believe that joining forces with Lorimer, Longhurst & Lees will offer just such an opportunity”.

The partners and staff of Lorimer, Longhurst & Lees are equally committed to and excited about the move. “One of the deciding factors in getting together with Stanley Tee LLP was the fact that they share a very similar company culture and ethos to ourselves” says Senior Partner Alastair Lorimer.

“Like us they’re pro-active and client centred in their approach, and together we’ll be even better equipped to understand and respond to clients’ needs, whether it be in offering professional advice, personal representation or formal administration of their affairs”.

For further information please contact Rob Elliott at Royston Simpson Creative on 01279 755555 or email rob@roystonsimpson.co.uk.

From left to right: Richard Tee, Senior Partner, Alastair Lorimer, Lorimers Senior Partner and David Redfern, Stanley Tee LLP’s Managing Partner,

